TUTORIAL VIDEOS: Link to the game: Some Windows 7 Connections are not responding I have a Windows 7 PC (Windows 7 Home Premium SP1) that I'm having trouble with. Some connections are not responding. For example, the page doesn't load at all, or it loads slowly, but the page's contents are there. The same happens with the homepage, it loads slowly and the URL doesn't take me back to the homepage. I don't know if it's safe to assume it's only happening with the small handful of sites in IE8, or if it's a more widespread problem. The speed is about the same as the Chrome version. It's happening to both wired and wireless connections. My ISP's DHCP works fine. I don't think that's the problem. I've tried an off-site scan with Norton 2011 to rule out a virus, no problems found. What's weird is the problem is only happening with some sites and not others. For example, the
